Present and future of the European Union
in the context of change
Sibiu, Romania
November 18th – 19th, 2016

This year's conference centres on the idea that the European Union is at a crossroads in the context of the changes and challenges of the current and previous years. The European Union is largely viewed as a success story and as a cornerstone of European stability and prosperity.

Currently, however, the EU faces a range of political, economic and social pressures, including slow growth and persistently high unemployment in many EU countries, as well as social unrest across several EU countries. Such factors are complicating the EU's ability to deal with a multitude of unprecedented internal and external challenges like the refugee crisis, the Greek financial crisis, the Brexit challenge, the Russia – Ukraine conflicts, the EU-USA trade agreement and other such events.

In order to discuss, asses and to make pertinent proposals we have established several tracks for the 2016 International Scientific Conference that can hopefully will offer several clear and applied answers:

1. Economics and Management;
2. Law and Administrative Sciences;
3. Human and Social Sciences
4. Psychology and Education Sciences
5. Applied Sciences and Engineering.
